

Up-to-date Insurance E-Almanac

| 2019

Introduction

Historically, the almanacs were pithy collections of useful information on a particular topic.

They were an indispensable tool of any professional community, a kind of platform that allowed them to exchange views and receive relevant information.

In insurance, such collections on a regular basis have never been created until now. The Union of Insurance Experts and Adjusters begins to fill the existing gap with the help of the first issue of the Up-to-date Insurance Electronic Almanac.

In 1827, Russian poet Alexander Pushkin wrote: “The almanacs have become the representatives of our literature. In time its movement and successes will be judged with reference to them.”

Based on this quote, we hope that our almanac will eventually become a representative of our insurance market and will be the frame of reference by which to judge its movement and successes in the future.
